THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

The Unions' Demands

Washington, Sept. 22.—With the increased strength of the labor bosses has come increased arrogance. An insatiable appetite linked to political power, and their gains have generated greed. Today their demands have gone beyond the bounds of reason, and dictatorial desire to run the country is apparent. Unless some restraint is imposed a period of labor-industry turmoil will occur, at the time when the nation in affords it least.

Appreciation of this fact led the President on Monday to place his Labor Secretary in stronger position to conciliate and adjust. A great deal depends upon how Mr. Schwelbensch uses his increased power. During the war, while the "no strike" pledge was being advertised, the nation was afflicted with an unprecedented number of strikes which seriously impeded the flow of vital important war materials. Now that there has come the same situation in regard to reconversion, threatening their breasts and proclaiming their public spirit, these professional labor leaders have insisted upon their anxiety to promote an orderly and swift change from a war economy back to a peace economy and upon their eagerness to avert unnecessary unemployment.

Best as during the war period, that they are doing in the peace period is the exact reverse of their promises and professions. Instead of co-operating with industry in the reconversion movement, which has been reasonably under way, will, in the opinion of the most competent and best-informed authorities, be followed by a period of great prosperity and full employment. Instead of co-operating in this, they have gone in the opposite direction. As a result, many thousands of workers are out on strike; great factories have been obliged to close down; the United Automobile Workers Union, without attempting to make out a case, has demanded a 30 per cent flat increase. Other unions have made equally large demands, and an almost record-breaking voluntary idleness seems about to fall upon the workers of the country.

M'ARTHUR 'CRACKS WHIP' AT JAPANESE IMPERIAL GOV'T; ORDERS EMPIRE TO DELIVER ABE; DISSOLVES NAVAL POLICE

Surrender of General to 8th Army Ordered — Japanese Government Instructed to Place All Food, Clothing, Arms and Munitions Assigned to Naval Police, Under Civil Guard.

By Frank Robertson
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Sept. 22.—(INS)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, cracking the whip at the Japanese Imperial Government, today ordered the empire to "apprehend and deliver" Gen. Nobuyuki Abe, and to proceed immediately to dissolve the Nipponese naval police.

Abe, former governor general of Korea, was dismissed recently as pro-tem functionary in that office by Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, commander of U. S. occupation troops in Korea.

General Abe, against whom charges were not made public, now is believed to be in the Tokyo area. He was ordered surrendered to the U. S. Eighth Army.

At the same time, General MacArthur directed the Imperial Government to achieve without delay the "complete and final demobilization" of the Japanese naval police.

Earlier, the government had proposed to reduce the naval police to 11,269 by Oct. 31. Empire authorities wanted this force retained until all arms had been collected and turned over to the Allies.

General MacArthur's reply called instead for elimination of the entire Japanese naval police structure and instructed the government to place all food, clothing, arms and munitions assigned to this force under civil police guard.

Meanwhile, Japanese realists, cheered by the imminent arrest of Lt. Gen. Genji Doihara, were reaching for the bootstraps of their defeated nation.

One hundred of the empire's leading anti-militarists, who had feared retention of the notorious General Doihara in Nippon's major military field command, convened in Tokyo today.

The meeting, at which the proletarian movement formally was injected into the postwar political picture, followed MacArthur's order for the "immediate arrest" of Doihara.

Spokesmen for the newly organized political movement said frankly they had been "displeased" when, with American approval, Doihara had been designated as commander of Japan's First General Army.

Doihara, leader of the infamous Manchurian Gendarmes, was permitted to succeed the late Field Marshal Gen. Sugiyama, who committed suicide Sept. 12.

20 Prizes Won by King Farms at Trenton Fair

It is stated that the fall sale of registered Duroc swine held at the Trenton, N. J., Fair on Saturday, was the best attended since the formation of the Northeastern Duroc Association. All pigs sold were born after March 1, 1945, and were entered in the Futurity Show at the Fair.

The top boar-pig brought $135, a pig bred by King Farms, Morrisville, and sold to Howard Geyer, of Eden, last winter. The top sow-pig brought $92.50 owned by Riverview Farms of York. This was the most successful hog sale in the East in many years.

At the Fair this year, King Farms took 20 ribbons in the largest field entries coming in from states other than New Jersey, in years, taking first place in Senior Yearling Boar Group (last year's Junior champion), to be defeated by his own sire for the grand championship.

In the female production line, King Farms took first and second in both the aged sow and senior sow groups, as well as first in the junior sow showing. This field was the heaviest competition of the entries. On the basis of this showing, King Farms won both the junior championship and the final grand championship.

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

According to a message received by the Board of Foreign Missions of the Lutheran Church, the Rev. Charles N. Reinbrecht and his family have been liberated from a Jap prison camp in China.

The Rev. Reinbrecht was a missionary in China when this country declared war upon Japan and with Mrs. Janet and their two children, Janet, 14 years, and Georgiana, 12, were imprisoned by the "Japs." Mrs. Reinbrecht is a daughter of Mrs. Arthur Landes, Souderton, and the Hilltown Lutheran Parish comprised of St. Peter's, Hilltown, and St. Andrew's, Perkaskie, guaranteed the financial support of the Reinbrechts ever since they entered the mission field more than 15 years ago.

According to the advices received in this country, the Reinbrecht family has been evacuated from a concentration camp at Weihsien and removed to Chungking.

A cablegram from Rev. Reinbrecht, addressed to Mrs. Landes, said that the family is safe but there are indications that all are suffering from their long confinement and malnutrition.

Students of Hilltown high school were excused from classes on Wednesday afternoon to help farmers in that vicinity harvest their tomato crops. Wednesday afternoons have been set aside for this activity as long as the demand for help on farms continues.

Plans were completed by the agriculture and home economics departments to attend the Allentown Fair yesterday. The students listed farm exhibits and showings of home canning, clothing, handicrafts, home furnishings, etc.

The home economics department, under the direction of Miss Jeanne Riebel, has about 40 girls enrolled in the various classes.

Canning has claimed the girls' attention, and a large number of jars of vegetables have been processed for use in the school cafeteria. Some of the classes have begun sewing, and dresses, blouses, skirts, jumpers and suits will be made and modeled in a fashion show soon.

RECEPTION TONIGHT

A nuptial mass in St. Mark's R. C. Church at 11 o'clock this morning united Miss Miriam L. Dewsnap, Edgely, and Mr. Edward Kurek, of Cleveland, O.

As the chords of the bridal march were played by Miss Katherine Keating, Linden street, the bride entered the church, escorted by her father who gave her in marriage.

The octette of young people comprising the bridal party was inclusive of: Mrs. Alexander Dewsnap, Edgely, aunt of the bride, as matron of honor; Miss Helen Dewsnap, Edgely, maid of honor; Miss Lois Dewsnap, Edgely, and Miss Dolores Wolvin, of Edgely, as bridesmaids.

The bridal gown was of white slipper satin, it having a fitted bodice which buttoned down the back, the neckline having an off-the-shoulder effect, and long sleeves being tapered. The skirt billowed to a full train, this being edged with chantilly lace. Her veil of illusion, finger-tip length, was draped from a jeweled headpiece. White satin slippers were worn. As she made her way to the altar the bride carried a white prayer book with a shower of forget-me-nots. For the reception she carried a bouquet of white carnations.

LATEST NEWS BULLETINS

Cleavage Widens in Big Five Council

London.—The cleavage widened today in the Big Five Council of Foreign Ministers.

After a week of bitter behind-the-scenes bickering over Balkan questions, British circles today openly criticized a new five-year Russo-Hungarian economic agreement signed without consultation with the other major powers.

On the heels of this latest disagreement, the Council announced postponement of today's conferences, presumably to allow a "cooling off" period. Officially the postponement was not connected directly with the Russo-Hungarian agreement, but it was obvious that the United States, Great Britain, and France were stirred deeply.

Women and Children "Herd" to Gas Chambers

Lueneburg.—A Jewish woman physician testified today that trembling women and children, attempting to escape the lethal gas chambers of the Oswiecim-Auschwitz death camp were rounded up like animals being led to slaughter.

Dr. Ada Binko, who sobbingly described the deaths of her mother, brother and six-year-old son in gas chambers disguised as showers, said Josef Kramer and blonde Irma Grese watched as the victims were herded into trucks which carried them to death.

Kramer and the 21-year-old Irma, and 43 other defendants are on trial before a British military court for mass murders committed at Oswiecim in southwestern Poland and at the infamous Belsen concentration camp.

The physician, who escaped the gas chamber because of her profession, said that prisoners too terrified to board the trucks were kicked and beaten by Kragner, who later earned the name of "beast of Belsen."

60% of Detroit Gas Stations Closed

Detroit.—Dynamic Detroit was faced with using available street cars or walking today as its transportation system spluttered to a halt.

More than 60% of the city's gas stations were closed. Company officials said all would be shut by Monday.

The number of workers idled by strikes topped 75,000. All Detroit bulk plants and refineries were closed and tanker, boat and non-emergency truck deliveries from outside were blocked by picket lines of the International Oil Workers' Union, CIO.

Mayor Edward Jeffries asked President Truman late Friday to act in the gas tie-up.

MANUFACTURE OF MINIATURE B-29'S AND OTHER METAL TOYS FORMS ONE OF BRISTOL'S NEWEST INDUSTRIES; IN PRODUCTION SOON

One of Bristol's newest, post-war industries, is about to come into being. The firm which will soon start operation is the Kemline Metal Products Co., which will manufacture metal items, the first of which will be miniature airplanes and other toys for Christmas trade.

It is expected that many all-metal model B-29 planes will be placed on the market during the next three months, officials of the new firm planning to sell through the larger department stores of Philadelphia and New York.

The three partners are Stephen Midonhas and Herman T. Ehrlich, of North Radcliffe street; and James W. Keegan, of Bath street. The three are former employees of Fleetwings, Division of Kaiser Cargo, Inc.

The factory of the Kemline Co. is located on the second floor of the Leedom Mill property, Beaver Road and Pond street. 3,000 square feet of floor space being leased. Machinery is now being installed and some construction and electrical work being carried out. It is anticipated that the plant will begin operation about October 5th, with full production by October 15th.

Twenty to 25 men and women will be employed when production is at its height, stated Mr. Midonhas today.

Following completion of manufacture of metal B-29's and other metal toys for Christmas trade, the variety of products will be increased, it is claimed.

The Kemline officials announce they expect to produce sufficient metal toys to supply the larger department stores of both Philadelphia and New York for the coming holiday season, branching out over larger selling territory later.

John S. Thomas and John Malanoski, Phila., Plead Guilty to Larceny

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 22.—John S. Thomas, 36, North 12th street, Philadelphia, and John Malanoski, Brandywine street, Philadelphia, were each fined half the costs and sentenced to serve from six months to three years in the Bucks County Prison, when they pleaded guilty to larceny and receiving stolen goods before Judge Boyer Wednesday afternoon.

The two men were charged with entering a house owned by Eugene D'Andres, Morrisville, on the Langhorne-Morrisville road, on July 18, 1945, and taking a showcase valued at $15 and an electric clock, $18.

Operating out of a garage and repair shop in Morrisville, the two men worked the theft by Thomas taking a truck he was driving "break down" in the immediate vicinity of the D'Andres house and sending for Malanoski to come out from the shop to repair it. The records showed that such instances of break-downs and repairs by the two defendants had occurred seven times between April and July on the same road.

According to the defense testimony, both Thomas and Malanoski went through the D'Andres house, which they found open and which was badly in need of repairs. They stated that they thought the clock and the showcase had been abandoned as worthless and took them into the shop on the truck. They claimed to have made no profit of any kind on either of the articles, having given the showcase away to an unknown Negro and hanging the clock in the front of the shop where any one could see it.

Thomas had a record, according to the district attorney's office of a number of arrests and some convictions. The Court stated that a

CORPORAL IN USMC WINS BRONZE STAR

John T. Baron and 3 Other Navy Corpsmen Carry 6 Wounded to Cover

MISS AN EXPLOSION

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC (Delayed)—Working under heavy artillery and mortar fire directed at their aid station on Iwo Jima, John T. Baron, Ph. M. 1/c, of Bristol, Pa., aided by three other navy corpsmen, carried six wounded Marines to cover.

For this "heroic achievement" Baron was decorated with the Bronze Star Medal at the Pacific base of the Fourth Marine Division, to which he is attached.

The aid station where Baron was working was in a revetment on an airfield, under observation by the enemy on higher ground. The wounded men were removed minutes before a mortar shell exploded on the spot where they had been lying. One man was killed and three others seriously wounded, but none of the injured men was hit.

Working under enemy fire is no new experience for this Pennsylvania corpsman. Baron was with the veteran Fourth Division on Iwo Jima, Saipan, Tinian and Iwo Jima. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Baron, 258 Harrison street, Bristol, and his wife, Mrs. Olga Koshman Baron, resides at 235 Koshman street, in Bristol. He attended the Wallington Public School in Wallington, N. J., and was employed by the Paterson Parchment Paper Company in Bristol prior to his enlistment.

The citation accompanying the award states: "For heroic achievement in connection with operations against the enemy while serving in the aid station of a Marine infantry battalion on Iwo Jima, Volcano Islands, on 21 February, 1945. Pharmacist's Mate Second Class Baron left his covered position to render first aid to six casualties who were lying on stretchers in the aid station. While he and three other corpsmen were so engaged, the enemy laid down a heavy mortar and artillery barrage directed chiefly at the aid station, located in a revetment on an airstrip and exposed to close enemy observation and accurate fire from high ground. Despite numerous direct hits on the aid station Pharmacist's Mate Second Class Baron succeeded in carrying the casualties to covered positions. At this time a mortar shell exploded in the aid station directly on the spot where the casualties had been lying. The direct hit killed one man and seriously wounded three others. None of the wounded men who had been removed to shelter was hit."

"By his personal courage and devotion to duty he doubtlessly saved these six helpless casualties from further serious injury or death. His courageous conduct throughout was in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service."

The Cup That Cheers?

(By "The Stroller")
There is a story going the rounds of the Fifth Ward about a prominent politician who visited some friends at Seaside, N. J. Upon the occasion of his first stop he engaged in social conversation and then was given some liquid refreshment of a choice brand.

He next visited another friend and there he was also offered a thirst quencher. At first he objected to the brand, saying that he had just had a much better drink. "All right," said his host, and he brought out another bottle. Pouring a drink, the visitor swallowed it in one gulp, only to find that it was vinegar.

FAIR FLYING BASES

Congress will look with a sympathetic eye, it seems certain, on the Navy's recommendation that the United States maintain nine major naval bases in the Pacific and at least six more in the Atlantic. While the Army is still to be heard from, the Navy's proposal is based on a realistic concept of American needs and responsibilities in the years ahead.

It cannot be denied that the Navy's plans, if put into effect, will make the greater part of the Pacific virtually an American lake. A major base on Okinawa would place American power almost on the shore of Asia though it would serve, with two, as a safeguard against a resurgent Japan. A major base in the Philippines would have a similar effect with respect to the East Indies.

But at Adak, in the Aleutians, America would still be far from the Kamchatka Peninsula.

The other bases contemplated by the Navy would keep open the American line of communications to these distant outposts. That is true of Guam, Manus, Hawaii, Kodiak and Balboa. The whole chain is required if the Navy is to keep possible attack far from the West Coast and at the same time insure peace in the Orient.

In the Atlantic, too, American influence would be extended.

The Navy proposes bases at Argentia, Newfoundland, and on Bermuda as well as on Porto Rico, at Guantanamo Bay, and at Coco Solo. And this list may not be complete, judging from a hint dropped by Secretary For-estal. But it is clear that the chief purpose here is to control the western Atlantic for the security of America.

The time may come when these far-flung bases will not be needed. But in the circumstances now prevailing they represent something close to the minimum of what this nation must have.

ONE FOR THE GIRLS

After the Army ban against fraternizing with the Germans was applied, the GI's over there,
with an eye to the frauleins, raised a great hue and cry to have it rescinded. It was, and now look what has happened.

American soldiers in growing numbers are applying in vain for Army permission to marry German girls, says a Berlin dispatch.
Both officers and enlisted men are among those who have filed written requests, but a welfare department says "it probably will be a year yet before such weddings will be permitted by the high command."

Consternation, no doubt, should be the word applied to the probable reaction of American girls to this turn of events. They may be expected to set up a solid front and really give the boys something to answer for. Meanwhile the girl friends might form some such offensive-defensive organization as a Get Them Home Before
A Year Is Up Club.

Pessimists who said it would take ten years to whip Japan are now predicting that 15,000,000 persons will be unemployed by spring.

ALL this has come at a time when industrial and labor harmony is most essential. Without it, difficulty of the great domestic problems created by the war will be vastly enhanced and the chance of an unnecessary national economic collapse very greatly increased. No one who fairly faces the facts will deny the truth of this. They fully prove that for their own selfish and short-sighted purposes, these professionals again will use an acute national crisis to promote their own special interests at the expense of the general interests.

THE indefensible nature of these strikes can best be presented by briefing the facts about the one in the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Company, as a result of which the Ford plant had to lay off 70,000 workers and various other stoppages have occurred. Last April the Kelsey-Hayes Company of Detroit discharged thirteen men for participation in the bodily election of two foremen from its plant, on three separate occasions. The War Labor Board assumed jurisdiction over the strike that followed and late in August ordered the company to reinstate nine of the thirteen but approved the discharge of four. Before the company could signify its acceptance of the order, the union bosses notified it that unless all thirteen were reinstated, the plant would be shut down. The issue in the case clearly was whether management shall have the right to control or discipline its employees for a series of acts of violence in its plants. The company, realizing that if it yielded it would lose all control of its business, said "no."

most emphatically. They would much rather go out of business.

AND this is not the only strike of its kind—by any means. For one reason or another—some of them exceedingly trivial—strikes have multiplied in the land—and many serious ones, calculated to slow the business wheels almost to a stop, are threatened. A planned general demand for large increases in wages is going up from unions all over the country, and very recently great encouragement was given to unions everywhere to make demands by a high Government official who "revealed" a Government plan to raise wages 50 per cent without raising prices. There, of course, is no way to reconcile that attitude with reason, and President Truman allayed the natural alarm thereby created, first, by eliminating the official; second, by declaring that he "did not speak for this Administration."

BUT this will not stop the drive now on. In the end, of course, there will be an advance in wages, but there also will be an advance in prices, which will make living more costly, lessen the purchasing power of the dollar, enhance the danger of inflation and leave everybody a little worse off than before. The amazing thing is that the great bulk of the American people, including, of course, the so-called
"common man" whose exploitation has become a major avocation of the political demagogues, do not wake up and revolt against the hokus-pokus with which they have been fed and resent the fakery who are doing the feeding.

RIVAL TO MY HEART

SYNOPSIS
Beauchamp's leading family, the Howard Thayers, are to entertain that night in honor of Howard's middle-aged sister, Reyna, author and world traveler, whom the war had forced home after being thirty years abroad. Lucienne, Howard's attractive young daughter by a previous marriage, admires Aunt Reyna almost as much as she does her cousin, young Gail Benton, the only woman doctor in Beauchamp. Agnes, Howard's domineering wife, and Lucienne, who is convalescing from a recent appendectomy, are chatting with Reyna when Gail leaves and that Howard had financed her medical education. "But as soon as she finished, she said Dad back," Lucienne added. Now Gail is on the staff of the Thayer Hospital, and it was rumored that when Dr. Cassius Mc-Cormick, chief of staff, picked his new assistant, it would be either Gail or Dr. Ralph Kramer.

CHAPTER THREE
The hospital was a landmark on Beauchamp Heights. It was a formidable red brick building with a slate roof, white shutters, and an entrance guarded by magnificent Doric columns.
Amos Niles was superintendent of the hospital. But Dr. Cassius McCormick was the virtual head.
Everybody bowed before him, cattered to him, feared him. Except Gail Benton.
"And I'm not going to start crin-gling now," she thought, as she swung down the dark, cool hall to Dr. Mc-Cormick's private office. She was a tall, slender young woman with good shoulders and a slim waist. In a simple, beige linen suit, with her black hair combed off her wide, intelligent forehead, her humorous mouth barely touched with lipstick, she looked like any affable, competent young woman in her late twenties.
It had been a hectic morning. Two operations; visits to her own patients in the wards; the stretch in the clinic, the emergency call to the Springdale slums. And now she was due at her office, not only to see her own patients, but also those of Dr.
Forrel, who'd been called up for service in the Army Medical Corps.
It was almost two o'clock, and she had found no time for lunch nor for a call to Gail Gentry. When he'd telephoned last night, asking,
"What are you wearing tomorrow, darling?" she'd been deep in a new medical journal. She had put it down and smiled into the transmitter, as if Burke's attractive image were there. "I'm not sure yet," she said.
"Shall I ring you tomorrow?"
Burke was sweet . . . she must call him the first free moment she had.
She knocked on Dr. McCormick's door.

"Come in," Dr. McCormick was sitting at his desk. There was a kind of old world elegance to the room;
paneled walls hung with pictures of the great men in medicine, the Mayos, Sir William Osler; and red damask draperies.
Dr. McCormick was in his late fifties, but he had the spare frame, the ageless resilience that comes from almost ascetic living. His head might have been painted by El Greco; the long bony neck, the cold, dark eyes, the gray Vandyle hiding the stubborn set of his mouth. He was the most influential man in Beauchamp, even more so than Howard Thayer. If you were a doctor, he could literally make your future, or ruin it.

"Dr. McCormick," Gail began hesitantly, "I'm worried about Mr. Zayle."
"Good afternoon, Gail. Sit down." Gail took the Chippendale chair opposite him. How many times she had been in this room during her days as an interne and as a resident;
and never for anything pleasant.
Dr. Cassius McCormick didn't summon his staff to praise them. He was a doctor in the old tradition, slow, painstaking, cautious. He spent every moment of his day concentrating on the hospital. He expected no less from his staff.
"What's on your mind?" he asked
now. No one disturbed Dr. McCormick merely for a cozy little talk.
She thought, "I'd better be diplomatic. If I tell him right off what I think of Mr. Zayle's case, he'll have my head!" Aloud she said, "I hear your son has come home, Doctor McCormick."

Old Glass and China'' Interests Floral Club

HALEONT, Sept. 22—A talk on "Glass and China" was presented by Miss Margaret R. Slack, Washington Crossing, before the Floral Club in the Grange here this week. Miss Slack is member of the Lingoheken Grange.

The speaker displayed many articles of glass and china and gave history of each. All of the articles displayed by Miss Slack were made by her immediate family. She also explained the significance of the designs.

A number of the members took pieces of old glass and china, and among them was a tea set displayed by Mrs. Joseph S. Hings. This article is over 200 years old and was brought to this country from England.

Mr. Eugene C. Wonder, the president, had charge of the business session.

BRISTOL HIGH ELEVEN HOLDS TRENTON CATHOLIC TO SCORELESS TIE IN GRID OPENER AT TRENTON

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 22.—Over 2,000 fans crowded Dunn Field last night to see the underdog Bristol High eleven hold the Golden Wave of Trenton Catholic to a scoreless tie in the gridiron opener of the season.

In contrast to the 27-0 licking the Jersey school handed the Bunnies last season, it was a moral victory for Bristol in holding the Catholic team scoreless.

But it was no easy task for the boys of Coach Starkhouse to stop the Trentonians from scoring, especially in the final period when the Jerseyites were exerting all their strength to push over a touchdown and trying several deceptive passing attacks to catch the locals off guard.

So gallant was Bristol's stand in the last quarter that on one occasion, the Catholic team was but one foot away from touchdown, yet the Bristol line held for downs. When another Catholic drive seemed imminent, "Moe" Caucei stepped in to intercept a pass and give Bristol possession of the pigskin.

Trenton was threatening until the final moment of the game when Bristol broke up its passing attack and took the ball. In the last two minutes of play, Catholic backs missed two long passes which would have meant certain scores if the receiver had held on to the ball.

Bristol's best drive was in the second period when Lou Mari intercepted a pass and was downed on his 45. Caucei, on an end play, gained 15 yards and on three other plays, Bristol made a first down to bring the ball to the Trenton 34. But here the drive ended and Bristol was forced to kick to Trenton's 8. This was the only period in which Trenton had its back to the wall.

Gene Warwick, brother of Coach "Eddie" Warwick of the Trenton Catholic team, did most of the ground gaining for his club although he was stopped in his tracks when he attempted to smash the Bristol line. The only ground-gainer for the Jersey team was a "screen pass" play with Warwick carrying the mail.

Joe Centonze and Caucei did the first offensive work for Bristol while on the defense, the work of "Paddy" Harms, Lou Mari, and "Bill" Foltz was outstanding.

Bristol was on the defensive at the start of the game as Mari kicked to Warwick who was downed on his 39. Myowski carried the ball for a two yard gain but a reverse, Warwick to Tylus, lost the gained yardage. Moohr completed a pass to Myowski for a first down on Bristol's 45. Iannucci broke through and got Tylus for a loss but Myowski gained six yards on an end run. Warwick booted to Bristol's 20. Centonze hit the line for three yards and after two more line plays, Lelinski kicked to Warwick who was downed on the 47. Myowski's pass was intercepted by Mari who was downed on his 45. Caucei gained 15 yards, fumbled but recovered. Centonze faked a center plunge for 8 yards and then hit the line for a first down. Lelinski and Black both lost yardage and Lelinski kicked to Trenton's 18. Two line plays netted the Golden Wave but three yards so Warwick kicked to Caucei on Bristol's 31 as the quarter ended.

Centonze went through the line for five yards but on the next play, Bristol was penalized five yards. Centonze failed to gain and Bristol booted to Moohr who was dropped on the 50-yard stripe. Warwick broke loose on an end run and rushed to the Bristol 15. Myowski failed at the line and two passes were incomplete as Bristol received the ball because Trenton was penalized and Bristol refused the penalty. Peole gained 7 yards at center and Centonze added two more through tackle. Centonze cracked the line for a first down on his 26. Lelinski netted four yards but Brennan broke through to spoil the next play. After Centonze failed to move the sticks, Lelinski kicked to Moohr who was downed on his 35. Two plays and Warwick failed to gain so Tylus kicked to the Bristol 23. After Coles made four yards, Centonze made it a first down at mid-field. Lelinski gained five yards but a Bristol pass was intercepted by Swiderski. Warwick gained five yards and Moohr lost the same amount as the first half came to a close.

On the second half kickoff, Warwick's boot went to Caucei who was downed on the Bristol 25. Centonze did not gain and Bristol was set back five yards for being off-sides so Centonze kicked to Trenton's 48. Warwick slipped over a tackle play and netted 9 yards. After Russo failed, Swiderski made a first down on Bristol's 45. Warwick and Russo failed at the Bristol line but Myowski completed a pass to Swiderski for a first down on the Bristol 29. Trenton tried three plays and did not gain an inch. Warwick kicked over the end zone. Centonze made six yards and Caucei on an end run added a first down. Bristol failed on the next three plays so Centonze kicked to mid-field. Trenton took a five-yard penalty and on the next play, Bristol was penalized. Catholic completed two passes for a first down on Bristol's 25. Moohr and Warwick gained nine yards as the third session ended.

To start the final canto, Warwick went around end for a first down on Bristol's fifteen. A pass, Moohr to Tylus gained nine yards and Warwick added another yard. A pass failed and on the fourth down, Myowski got away for a touchdown but a holding penalty was detected and the play recalled with Catholic getting a 15-yard penalty. On the fourth down, a pass failed and Bristol was in possession of the ball on her 20. On the first play, Accardi fumbled and Warwick recovered for Trenton on the Bristol 15. Bristol was penalized five yards on the next play and Warwick added two more. Myowski then made it a first down on Bristol's one-yard line. Warwick took three tries at Bristol's line and did not advance the ball. He was stopped on the fourth try as both sides were off-sides, the play was recalled and Catholic given another chance. This time, Myowski carried the ball but his "Bill" Foltz broke through and stopped the Catholic back about six inches from the goal line. Accardi kicked out of danger for Bristol and on the run-back, Tylus had clear sailing until he was dropped from behind by Harms who had already been taken out of the play. Warwick after two passes failed, gained 15 yards for a first down and added three more on a short end run. A pass, Warwick to Swiderski, was completed for four more yards but Caucei got in front of the next pass and intercepted. He would have probably gotten away for a touchdown had someone taken Ryan out of the play but the Trenton end stopped the Bristol runner. A mix-up followed as Ryan was accused of unnecessary roughness and the fans ran into the field as the players almost came to blows. However, play was resumed and two penalties took Bristol back to its two yard line before Accardi kicked to Tylus on the 25. Trenton kept trying passes but did not complete any as the game ended.

In all, Trenton Catholic had nine first downs to Bristol's five. The Bunnies' backs gained a total of 93 yards by rushing the ball. Trenton fumbled five times while the inexperienced Bristol backs only had two fumbles.

Record Discharges Of Service Group

of the transcription with the original document. All this requires time, and the transcribers have been kept quite busy. It has been pointed out this is done free of charge to all returned veterans, but a nominal fee is charged for certified copies.

Frequently the servicemen have their discharges recorded immediately after returning home. Upon being discharged, they report to the Selective Service Board headquarters in the Court House, and from there they often take their discharges to the office of Recorder of Deeds for recording.

Even veterans of World War I are still taking their discharges to be recorded. In addition to having the discharges entered in the office of Recorder of Deeds, many of the veterans are having photostatic copies made. Some of these are pocket size.

Recording of discharges has been advocated for many months by the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars. In case a veteran does not have his discharge recorded and loses it, he has a rather difficult time in procuring a duplicate. Recording of the discharges, it has been pointed out, will save the veterans this trouble in case the documents become lost or mislaid.

Back from the Dead

ONE OF the most amazing stories of the war has had its climax in Shanghai, China. Comdr. Columbus D. Smith, 55, Atlanta, Ga., officially listed as dead, even to his wife, has turned up safe and sound. In command of the gunboat Wake, Smith was taken prisoner by the Japs in 1941. He escaped, was recaptured, and escaped again. Flown to Washington, he was sent on a special mission after being listed as dead. Only recently, after the mission—mine-sweeping the Yangtze—was completed, was Mrs. Smith told he was very much alive. (International) the midst of getting married and was about to leave for the church. Mrs. Kollar testified that her husband started an argument, took the keys of the car so the wedding party could not leave, and struck her. She also testified that her husband had given her but $29 support money over a six-month period.

After hearing both sides, Judge Keller suspended sentence and placed Kollar on probation for six months, after he learned that the defendant had been in jail 10 days. He advised Kollar to move back to the Bucks county farm by coming home every week-end. He warned him that if he did not support his wife, he would be brought back to court by Probation Officer Horace E. Gwinner.

Snappy Pork Sausage Dish

The zippy flavor of pork sausage is right in keeping with the crisp air and the brisk breeze of autumn. Here is a novel way to prepare and serve this popular meat, suggested by Jessie Alice Cline, home economist. It's an economical, easy, meal-in-a-dish.

Dixie Style Sausage
1 pound pork sausage links (small)
1 large onion, sliced
1 cup uncooked rice
1 No. 2½ can or 2½ cups cooked tomatoes
½ cup water
1 cup diced celery
1½ teaspoons salt

Put sausage links in cold frying pan with 2 tablespoons water. Cover and let simmer until water evaporates. Remove cover and brown sausage links all over, turning as needed. Remove sausage from pan pour off all but 2 tablespoons of fat. Add sliced onion and uncooked rice to the fat in frying-pan; stir and cook until golden brown. Add the sausage tomatoes, water, diced celery, and salt. Simmer all together for 30 to 40 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serves six.

RUTH AND COBB CAN'T AGREE WHO IS BEST PLAYER

If You Ask the Babe He Will Say That the Georgia Peach Was Tops

TY CLAIMS THE BABE IS

Former DiamondGreats Got Together Recently in New York; Talked Baseball

By Les Conklin
(N. Y. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(INS)—Who was the greater ball player—Ty Cobb or Babe Ruth?

Well if you ask the Babe, he will tell you that the Georgia Peach was tops. But if you question Ty, he will surprise you by lauding Ruth not as a hitter, but as a pitcher.

The two former diamond greats got together in New York a few days ago for the contest between the two All-American baseball teams. Ty was managed the Western amateurs, while Ruth was the pilot of the Eastern aggregation. They immediately started tossing verbal bouquets at each other.

Ruth thundered: "You can say for me that Ty Cobb was the greatest player I ever saw, or heard about. Play him towards the left center and he'd hit down the right field foul line. If you hugged the foul line he'd hit the ball into left center."

"When I was pitching, I'd always make him hit the dirt by throwing the ball at his right ear. He'd get up and try to knock the ball down my throat."

Discussing Cobb's base-running feats, Ruth went out to recount how infielders on rival clubs had to wear shinguards as protection against Ty's flying spikes.

"When Cobb was on first, I'd count three and throw to second," Ruth related. "When I was pitching for the Red Sox, Heinie Wagner was our shortstop. Heinie would block the bag, but Ty would cut him from ankle to knee with his spikes. I guess they play more polite baseball today. In our day, the infielders wore felt shinguards."

At this point, Cobb picked up the ball and started praising Ruth.

"You boys remember Ruth as a 'long-ball hitter,'" related Cobb, "but when I think of him it is as a big left-handed pitcher. I never could hit the Babe."

Cobb added that the greatest hitter he ever saw was Nap Lajoie, the old second baseman of the Cleveland Naps. Ty believes that if Nap had batted in the age of the lively ball, he would have racked up the highest average of all time.

The costumes were cut on old-fashioned lines, and they wore long gloves to match the gowns. Their net head-pieces were Mary Queen of Scots type, caught in the center with forget-me-nots in pastel shades. Satin slippers matched the costumes, and each attendant carried a basket of mixed flowers.

Gifts of the bride to her attendants were single strands of pearls; and Mr. Kurek presented the best man and ushers with wallets.

Mrs. Kurek selected as a traveling costume for a two weeks' trip to Yellowstone National Park a medium green suit, luggage tan slippers and hat, blouse and gloves of white. Her corsage was of gardenias.

For the occasion, Mrs. Dewsnap, mother of the bride, selected a dress of black velvet, black hat and accessories. Mrs. Kovelski, mother of the groom, was attired in a blue dress and black hat and accessories. Both wore corsages of white roses.

Members of the immediate families were served dinner at the Hotel Stacy-Trent, Trenton, N. J., following the ceremony. An evening reception is planned at Dick's Hall, Edgely.

More than $1,430,000,000 is involved in the Public Works Program of Pennsylvania's local governments and State departments according to an inventory taken by the State Planning Board of the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce. The public works listed in this inventory represent practical and necessary improvements which will be required over the next five or ten years to bring to Pennsylvanians the full advantages they desire for better living and increased industrial opportunities.

The programs of the State departments total $700,000,000 to be spent over the next decade on further improvements and extensions of Pennsylvania's 45,000 miles of State-operated highways, on enlarged hospitals, improved educational facilities, stream clearance, flood prevention, and improvements to State-owned park, forest and game land.

Local governments have plans including sewage disposal plants, water systems, public buildings, airports, hospitals, schools, parks and street construction to a total of more than $730,000,000.
